We're Open For Visits

Newsletter created by Lillian Palmer

Good news, everybody. The Sublette Center is now able to host in-person, private visits with residents. "It's just been wonderful that they're finally able to see each other in person," Activity Director April Rose said. "I feel very blessed to be a part of that part of the job, it's been a hard year."

Rose has been orchestrating the family/resident visits. The Center is one step closer to fully opening to visitors again. Here's why:

- The Sublette County positivity rate of COVID-19 cases has dropped under 10%.
- There are no positive resident/staff COVID-19 cases within the facility.

The Center is gradually welcoming visitors back. We encourage families to stay vigilant. If the county-wide positivity rate rises above 10%, or the facility receives another positive COVID-19 case, The Center will have to close its doors to visitors again.

The Beautician Is Back

*The beautician's back and you're gonna get a haircut.
Hey-la-day-la the beautician's back!*

As if the past year wasn't difficult enough, residents went without a professional haircut or color for the duration as well. Beautician Amber (Jensen) Stout was welcomed back in the building in March and needless to say, there was a line out the salon door. With Stout's scissors back in action, residents' spirits and hair are lifting already.

Residents weren't the only ones looking forward to a haircut this month. CNA Manager Lara Hayward made a commitment early on in the pandemic to abide by the same rules the residents had to; no going to restaurants, no visiting family, no hair appointments.

"So I didn't cut or color my hair until the residents could have the beautician in the building," Hayward said.

"The first time I cut and colored my hair (since the pandemic started) was actually by our beautician when she came in," she said.

"I had her put foil in my hair at work and celebrated with the ladies that we were able to get our hair done."

Word in the Center; April Fools Edition

Have you ever been "fooled" on April Fools Day?
Or have you been the trickster?

"Yes. I told my mom I was pregnant while I was in college. Was not, but it was funny because she freaked out, because this was before she had any grandkids. She said she was going to put me six feet under ground. Then I said, 'No, I'm just kidding, its April 1st,'"

~ Cheyenne

"I have never been fooled in my life about anything on any day,"

~ James

"My little siblings, I'm a really deep sleeper, and they drew unibrows and mustaches all over my face. And I didn't know about it. It was in permanent marker, so when I woke up it was like a brand new hideous face,"

~ Mariah

"It wasn't on April Fools, but I fooled my dad on the phone. I told him I was driving home, but I pulled up at his house house instead and surprised him. I said I was driving home, not which one. ,"

~ Tatiana

"Yes. I did not know that the Pinedale Roundup did an 'April Fools' edition every year, and they said that we were getting an Olympic-size swimming pool. I don't know if the entire edition was a joke, but they said some things in there that were quite whimsical,"
